

BUSINESS MEN'S DAY IS STAGED IN CRIMINAL COURT

Broker Heads List of Defendants—Faces $18,850 Misappropriation Charge.

Business men accused of crooked dealings figured prominently in proceedings in the Criminal Court Building to-day. Detective Cunniff of the District Attorney's staff opened the business men's day by arriving from Philadelphia on an early train with William Tappan, who used to run a brokerage office at No. 17 West 43d Street.

Tappan was indicted for grand larceny in the first degree on the complaint of Clayton Platt, an insurance broker at No. 27 William Street. Mr. Platt says he gave Tappan $18,850 to be invested in stocks on June 20, 1921. He charges that Tappan appropriated the money and fled from the city.

Tappan will be arraigned to plead to the indictment on Monday. In the Supreme Court Justice Edgcomb sentenced Mark V. Rilly, President of the New England Forwarding Company to a term in Elmira Reformatory. Rilly was convicted last week of stealing $1,800, which he collected for a customer from an insurance company for losses on a shipment of liquor to South America.

In the Commercial Fraud Court, Bernard Graf of No. 92 Fairmont Place, Bronx, and Benjamin Melnick, No. 3072 65th Street, Brooklyn, were arraigned before Magistrate Simpson on charges of obtaining credit by the presentation of false statements of the assets of their businesses. Graf was held in $500 bail and Melnick in $2,000 bail for trial in the Court of Special Sessions.

WOMEN THINK IT'S FIRE AT FIRELESS COOKER CRY IN GARDEN CROWD

"Genius" Starts Panic, Interrupting Dr. Copeland With Announcement of "Invention."

Charles P. Da Vite, fifty-one, No. 340 East 151st Street, admitted to Magistrate Levine, when arraigned in Yorkville Court to-day on a charge of disorderly conduct, that he is an inventor and a genius. He was held for examination and sentence on Nov. 21, and meanwhile his mental condition will be investigated.

The man threw consternation last night into the meeting in Madison Square Garden of the Merchants' Association. There were 12,000 persons in the big auditorium and Senator-elect Copeland had begun an address, when Da Vite arose in a gallery and shouted:

"Never mind him. I have a more important message. I have invented a fireless cooker."

Women near him heard the word fire and a panic nearly resulted. Several fainted. Detectives Devine and Sheedy of the East 58th Street Station quieted the women and arrested Da Vite.

His wife closed her vaudeville engagement in Chicago last Monday and hurried to his bedside. He rallied for a time, but became unconscious Thursday night.

FINED AND JAIL TERM FOR BEATING DAUGHTER

Sentence Suspended, However, Pending Good Behavior.

Mrs. Lena Jablonsky, who last Thursday was convicted in the County Court at Mineola of assault in the third degree for beating her seventeen-year-old daughter, Vivian, with a razor strap, was fined $200 to-day by Judge Lewis J. Smith and sentenced to three months in jail. The jail sentence was suspended pending good behavior. Mrs. Jablonsky pleaded guilty to day to violating the Muligan-Gage law and sentence was suspended.

Vivian testified at the assault trial that she had taken a quart of whiskey out of the house and sold it for $2, keeping the money. It was for keeping the money, she said, that she was beaten by her mother.

FEAR FOR PAYROLL WHEN INSPECTOR IS SHOT IN THIGH

Alarm for American Express' $250,000 Currency Due to Accident.

This is pay day for about 8,000 drivers and helpers of the American Railway Express of Manhattan and Long Island City and bills and silver to an amount estimated all the way from $250,000 to $500,000 had been brought to the company's headquarters, No. 218 East 43d Street, to be put into the pay envelopes.

Guarding this collection of currency were a sharpshooter in a tower overlooking the paymaster's room and eleven armed inspectors who were on the floor. One of the latter was Charles J. Engel of No. 19 Waverly Street, Jersey City. He had a .28-caliber automatic in his overcoat pocket.

Once, as he patrolled the floor, he put his hand into the armed pocket and in some way the pistol was discharged, the bullet entering his right thigh.

The sound of the explosion caused a sudden commotion in the place, and all the inspectors ran toward Engel, the rifleman in the tower, making ready with rifle leveled. But excitement subsided very quickly when it was learned what had happened, and Engel was taken in an automobile to Bellevue Hospital. He was not seriously wounded.

Word of the accident was sent to the East 31st Street Station, and seven detectives went to the express office on the run and then went away again, but not so rapidly.

$25,000 BAIL FIXED IN PAYROLL ROBBERY

Prisoner Charged With Attacking Bank Messenger, Grabbing $7,800.

Joseph Courtois, No. 637 Driggs Avenue, was held in $25,000 bail in Williamsburg Bridge Police Court to-day by Magistrate Ellinger on a charge of highway robbery. Courtois, it is charged, attacked Adam Wagner, a bank messenger, now a messenger for the Williamsburg Branch of the Public National Bank, in the clothing factory of Riglio Brothers, Grand and Roebeling Streets, yesterday afternoon, stole the Riglio payroll amounting to $7,800 and fled. Wagner, although he had been knocked down, gave chase. Four blocks from the scene of the robbery Detective John Lawlor saw Courtois, carrying the payroll satchel, dash into the hallway of a tenement. The detective followed and nabbed Courtois, who put up a fight. The money was recovered.

FIRST MATE IS DROWNED AS HE BOARDS HIS SHIP

Falls Off Rope Ladder Into Water and Does Not Come Up.

Arthur T. Moore, first mate on the steamship Nile, was drowned this morning boarding his ship, which is lying off Fort Wadsworth. Moore was climbing a rope ladder and fell into a few feet of water that separated his own ship from another anchored alongside. He went down and did not resurface, and it is believed he struck his head on something. His body has not been recovered. Moore was thirty-five years old and was born in Norfolk. An examination of the effects in his cabin showed him to be an actor affiliated with the Actors' Association of the State of Virginia. He obtained his papers as a mate five years ago when he was twenty-two. He was hard to obtain in the theatrical business he went to sea. He planned to leave the Nile next month.

DOROTHY GORDON NOT SANE YET, SAYS EXPERT

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—Dorothy Gordon, heiress to a $400,000 estate, and now a patient in the McLean Hospital for the insane at Waverly, is in need of further treatment at the institution, Dr. George M. Kline, State Commissioner of Mental Diseases, said in a formal statement after a visit to Miss Gordon.

"The department is of the opinion that Miss Gordon is in need of further treatment," said Dr. Kline. "If the court desires, a statement from the department relative to the mental condition of the patient the same would be made upon the request of the court."

BUTTERFLIES PERCH ON DIMPLED KNEES OF BALTIMORE GIRLS

Tattoo Artist Busy Decorating Flappers for Beach Season

BALTIMORE, Nov. 18.—The blue-eyed, bobbed golden-haired Baltimore flapper has hit upon a novel decoration. She has her knees tattooed with lovely butterflies. The tattoo fad is spreading rapidly among the flappers. There is a professional tattooer in Baltimore who declares he is kept busy doing butterfly designs on dimpled knees.

The butterfly-on-the-knee fad is a new departure, says the tattooer. He predicts a surprise for the bathing beaches when the 1923 season opens.

But the solitary butterfly, or pair of 'em, startling as it may seem to some, is scored by twenty-two-year-old Agnes Kelly. She is having her body completely covered with designs. When the job is done she will be one of the world's three women who are fully tattooed.

"TIGER" UNSHEATHS CLAWS IN HIS DEFENSE OF FRANCE

It has been seen in the fields, and the young ladies look exactly the same, and that is the first message I am going to send to my country. I am going to tell them to come here because there are beautiful ladies to look at.

"During more than fifty years I have been mixed up with all of the worse crises of France—think of that! In my own life I have seen my country invaded twice by Germans. I am the only survivor of those who protested at the assembly at Bordeaux against the act of invasion. I don't want to see that invasion repeated. I will not permit any one to tell me that I have too many soldiers or too few soldiers unless they succeed in some way and give us such guarantees. Then only, with the greatest of pleasure, will I dissolve the French Army.

"Will you Americans show us a similar feeling. We must defend ourselves."

The tremendous ovation which accompanied M. Clemenceau all the way from Quarantine and followed him through all the ceremonies of welcome from the Battery to City Hall and then up to the residence of Charles Dana Gibson, his host, was one of the greatest demonstrations that New York ever has given a visitor from foreign lands. Foch was not more ardently welcomed. Nor Joffre.

The Paris of the French Line reached Quarantine at 2.30 o'clock this morning, but it was not until 8 that the city's official reception steamer, the Macton, drew alongside. By that time the immigration officials had given a passport and the customs agents had arranged for the quick handling of the baggage of the Clemenceau party.

"The Tiger" was standing on the shelter deck of the Paris when the Macton drew up. The city's band was playing the "Marseillaise," but the glasses window in front of the former Premier apparently prevented him from hearing the strains of the music, for he gave no sign. In fact he must have been standing there for some minutes before those on the Macton picked him out.

Frank L. Polk, former Assistant Secretary of State, the "Tiger's" personal friend, was first to spy him and shout:

"There he is!"

A cheer went up. Hats were waved. Little flags fluttered. And then Clemenceau did see. He waved his own shaggy grey hat.

Vessels all about were flying flags in his honor and saluting him with their sirens. Passengers and crews of all sorts of craft within visual range waved hats, handkerchiefs, mufflers and even overcoats.

"One day a British newspaper arrived. It contained criticisms from a man of very high standing, calling America had names. At that moment I decided I had better go to America. That is the reason why I am here. I do not make sentences. I don't promise anything. I come, as you very well know, on a mission.

"Nobody can accuse any personal aim to my act in visiting this country. My life is over. But it does seem to me that I can do some service in letting you know how we Europeans judge the American people. It is necessary because in the world at this time there is a crisis. How it will end nobody knows. If you tell the bad side—well, there has been one war—we may have to go to war again. If it turns out right and the right thing is done at the right time, then it is one of the greatest steps for the civilization of mankind.

"That is the question I have come to put to America. I will ask it for great freedom of thought and great freedom of speech. I must be allowed to speak as a free man to free men who are not afraid of anything, and I hope your greetings will encourage me to believe that I will get good access to American minds.

POLICEMAN TAKES AUTO AND WINE IN FIGHT WITH SEVEN

Attacked When He Halts Bootleg Car Containing Cases of Champagne.

Policeman James McDonnell of the West 47th Street Station saw a touring car speeding from the pier at 58th Street and North River early to-day and ordered the driver to stop.

As the car slowed down, McDonnell saw in it four cases marked "French Champagne." The driver and two men in the car were ordered out. Two other men ran toward him from the pier, shouting:

"That's all right, officer, cut it out. What's the matter with you?" Then two other men approached, assuring him that "everything is all right," and offering to "fix it up" if he allowed the automobile to proceed.

When they realized that the three men from the car were under arrest the four others attacked the policeman.

The three from the car ran up 58th Street during the battle, and after the four had effected their escape themselves turned and scattered. McDonnell fired three shots, but the seven men got away. A man standing nearby was arrested on a charge of interfering with an officer, though he said he was only attracted by the excitement. He described himself as Thomas Burns, thirty-one, No. 565 West 57th Street, a chauffeur. The police made him drive the captured car and liquor to the station. Several weeks ago McDonnell, single-handed, captured four alleged bootleggers after shooting one of them. He believes the champagne seized to-day was landed from a small boat.

300 GUESTS ROUTED BY $100,000 BLAZE IN BROOKLYN HOTEL

women began to appear in windows in their nightgowns.

Two couples were in a third floor window shouting for help. The police men climbed the fire escape and assisted them to the street. They said they were newly married and refused their names. The couple had descended without aid if they had not been excited.

When the rescuers had reached the street they heard a woman scream and saw Mrs. Ellen Helgesen at a fourth floor window. She was in night attire and began throwing bed clothes out the window. The fire escape was directly under her, but she appeared to be hysterical and threatened to jump, according to the men in the street.

The three went back up the escape ladder and by the time they reached her husband, Capt. Nat Helgesen, appeared. They were helped to the street and sought refuge in the Post Office, wrapped in overcoats, until the fire was out.

The remaining twenty-nine in the annex were hoisted down an extension ladder run up by Trucks Nos. 115 and 110. By that time the fire had spread through the other two floors of the annex and two alarms had been sounded.

The guests in the main hotel, numbering more than 270, did not dress on being aroused, but all wore overcoats and wraps and did not leave the hotel lobby during the fire. Lines of hose were run through the main building to the third floor and then over to the annex. Nobody was hurt. The damage was confined to the annex and all but about $12,000 or $15,000 was in the dry goods store.

CURFEW SHALL NOT RING, TO-NIGHT OR ANY OTHER, BY ORDER FROM CAPITAL

Lexington Postoffice Clock Made So Much Noise It Kept People Awake.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.

Orders were issued by the Treasury to-day stopping the striking of the clock in the tower of the Postoffice Building at Lexington, Ky. Complaint was filed by a hotel of the city against the booming of the tower timepiece in the still night on the ground that "guests seriously object to the nocturnal serenade during the peace and quiet of the evening."

"The striking of the clock in itself does not," says the Treasury's order, "under the conditions of this case, add to the benefits derived from a tower clock. In olden days, when few people possessed clocks or watches, the public clock in the church steeple filled a great want. But now, when nearly everybody owns a watch and every residence its own clock, tower clocks, except as to striking the hours, are no longer a crying necessity nor a public utility."

STOPS CONTEST ON WILL OF EX-POLICE CAPTAIN

Judge Decides Testator Was Competent and Not Influenced.

The four-day contest over the will of former Police Capt. Orson Freer was brought to a close to-day when Surrogate Schulz of the Bronx dismissed the case without giving it into the hands of the jury.

Mrs. Martha Freer Howard, Capt. Freer's daughter, and his three sons, Frank, George and John, sought to break the will, which disposed of an estate of about $40,000, all of which was left to a second wife. They contended that Freer, who died in July last at his home, 544 Belgrave Avenue, was incompetent to make a will and also was under undue influence.

Surrogate Schulz said that he believed Freer was sane and was not under restraint nor improper influence, adding that he took the matter out of the jury's hands because if it had found for the contestants he would have had to reverse the verdict.

SURE STRONG CASE IS BUILT UP FOR HALL GRAND JURY

Brunswick and New York the Rev. Mr. Hall told him he was going to get out of New Brunswick because of Mrs. Mills, as he was in constant fear over threats of being "finished" if he did not give her up. He said Mr. Hall told him he was deeply in love with Mrs. Mills and couldn't get over it. After Mr. Hamborsky had made this statement again last night, he was asked if he had told anybody at the time of the murder.

"Yes, the first day I saw in the papers that Mr. Hall had been married with Mrs. Mills," was the answer. "I told Mr. Stewart, Mr. Miles, a mechanic named Thompson, and a salesman named Nemeth in the office of the Standard Auto Parts Company, No. 1778 Broadway. I then drove to New Brunswick and in a poolroom in a New Brunswick saloon at French and Brown Streets I told it to Joseph Part, the proprietor, and to Henry Masterson, a local politician."

"Masterson told me I had better keep my mouth shut. He said I did not know what I would be up against if I talked about that case out there. Part cashed my check for $10."

Within twenty minutes after this statement was made, A. A. Stewart, manager of the Standard Auto Parts Company at No. 1778 Broadway, had corroborated Mr. Hamborsky. He said the latter had made the statement in the presence of several other the day on which the findings of the bodies of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills was first reported, or on the first or second day next following.

"Mr. Hamborsky said to us," Mr. Stewart continued, "that the Rev. Dr. Hall, talking to him in the Hudson Terminal, had said he was going to get out of New Brunswick, that he was in fear of his life because a member of Mrs. Hall's family had threatened him. Mr. Hamborsky repeated that statement on a later visit to this office."

P. Nemeth, a salesman, who lives on Washington Heights, also corroborated the statement of the clergyman.

Promptly upon the appearance of Hamborsky's sensational story, two clergymen of Hungarian pastorates in New Brunswick, expressed their belief in the story and lack of confidence in its author. They were the Rev. Dr. A. G. Schold, Dean of the Eastern Convocation of the Hungarian Reformed Church of America, and the Rev. Dr. Sigmund Laky, pastor of the First Hungarian Evangelical Reformed Church.

At the Hall home it was said Mrs. Hall remembered Hamborsky's name and said although it was possible he had been at the Hall house on clerical business she did not remember ever having met him.

Charlotte Mills, daughter of the slain clergyman, said her mother knew Mr. Hamborsky and had once attended a lecture given by him.

FARMERS SAVED G.O.P., SAYS CAPPER; MUST BE HELPED

Tells Leaders What They Must Do to Keep Vote and Prevent Defeat.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Declaring that the farmers saved the Republican Party from disaster in this year's election, Senator Capper, Kansas, Chairman of the Senate Farm Bloc, to-day, served notice on party leaders that they must enact the Bloc's program if they expect the party to continue in power.

The Republicans have alienated and lost the labor vote, Capper said, and if they cannot satisfy the farmer within the next two years "must be prepared to meet with further and more serious reverses."

The Farm Bloc Chairman, returning to Washington to-day for the special session beginning Monday, outlined the Farm Bloc program. "If the Republican Party is to continue in power," said Capper, "it must do these things:

"Put through a complete rural credits plan, to give farmers and stock raisers adequate financing facilities.

"Increase the Federal farm loan limit from $10,000 to $25,000.

"Reduce freight charges and repeal the guarantee clause and other objectionable parts of the Esch-Cummins law.

"Provide for a better system of marketing.

"Put the development of the Muscle Shoals project in the hands of Henry Ford.

"Pass the truth-in-fabrics bill and the filled milk bill.

"Adopt a Constitutional amendment prohibiting issue of tax exempt securities.

"Reduce taxes further, and effect more Government economies.

"Make undivided bonuses and stock dividends help pay the cost of Government.

"Do something to help Europe recover, and restore our foreign market."

PARENTS PUMMEL COP AND AID SON'S ESCAPE

Court Sends Both to Jersey Jail Until Fugitive Is Produced.

Angeles Street, North Bergen, N. J., proved anything but angelical last night when Detective Lieut. Cash of the North Bergen police called at No. 925 to arrest Louis Maragoula, sixteen, who with two other youngsters had escaped on Oct. 24 from the West Hoboken Police Station, leaving their way out. The boys had been arrested for minor offenses.

Lieut. Cash had received a tip that the boy had returned home, so he ran the family bell at about 10 o'clock last night. When he stated his business the parents of the boy leaped on him and pummeled, scratched and held him down on the floor until the boy had sufficed himself with a fresh escape. This time out his own back door. The parents finally were overpowered and arrested. This morning Recorder Mills sent both to the Hudson County Jail until the boy is produced.

Manko had been sentenced to serve from two and one half to nine years in Sing Sing by County Judge Gibbs.

Manko, who lives at No. 18 East 109th Street, was arrested in 1920 in a roundup of persons responsible for the circulation of literature urging the overthrow of the Government by force and the adoption of it by workingmen. Circulars of this kind were found in his possession.
